

Fresh from developing the all-new Diva 34 which is due for launch later this summer, Swedish Diva Yachts has now announced a new 40 footer.

The firm has long enjoyed a reputation for high quality yachts with good performance and they weathered the economic storm of 2008 by going back to basics and producing 24ft daysailers. Now they are back in the big time and the new 40, which will actually be built in Estonia, promises to be an innovative and exciting boat.

Designer Berndt is famous for detail. She has a dreadnought bow and a sheerline that rises steeply amidships. Her beam is relatively modest compared to the Diva 34 and her hull looks easily driven.

- £178,000
- divayachts.se

Samuel Jefferson

Sam is the Editor of Sailing Today. He has cruised and chartered far and wide and still leads an itinerant boaty life.

